

SAFESTREETS

June 6, 2016

In the News: Mayor shares need for low-barrier housing facility

EVERETT – In yesterday’s Herald, Mayor Ray Stephanson addressed concerns surrounding the permanent supportive housing facility for the chronically homeless in Everett, as Catholic Housing Services was chosen last week to develop and operate the facility. This guest commentary also examined the importance of the project to the Everett community, and the benefits this facility will offer: Everett low-barrier housing effort offers many benefits.

Learn more about the Community Streets Initiative or the Everett Safe Streets Plan.

Learn more:

For more information on the Community Streets Initiative, visit www.everettwa.gov/streetsinitiative.

For more information on the Safe Streets Plan, visit www.everettwa.gov/safestreets.

Sign up for email updates at www.everettwa.gov/notifyme.